INTRODUCTION

The greater part of this manuscript was copied from the Workbook of Cassius Milton Jay (1886 - 1953). It is his index to the Jay Family in America, those who are descended from William Jay (born in Harford County, Maryland in 1720) and his wife, Mary Vestal Jay.

But it is more than this, for it is a compilation of the work of Cassius Jay and the work of Eli Jay before him (1826-1911), whose lifetime accumulation of data was turned over to Cassius on Eli's death. It bears witness to the diligence and patience of these dedicated Jays, to the many years spent in search of Jay data and to the hours spent in recording it all in a neat spidery longhand.

It was Eli Jay (No.1568),the staunch Quaker, the educator, pioneer, professor of mathematics at Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, and historian of the Pearson and Jay families, who first set about Jay genealogical work.

Next to follow in Eli's footsteps was Cassius Milton Jay, the prodigious letter writer, the compiler of family data,the dreamer and successful business man who was born in Keokuk, Iowa on 5 Feb. 1886 and died in Los Angeles, California on 3 Jan. 1953. He was graduated in 1904 from the Quaker college, Whittier College, California in the first graduating class and later attended the University of Southern California School of Law. He retired from the Security First & Nat'l. Bank of Los Angeles as a Vice President.

Cassius Milton Jay was a prominent member of the California State Society of the Sons of [illegible] Revolution and a one time Editor of their magazine, "The Bulletin". He was very active in this Society and was considered by them to be an excellent genealogist. He possessed a valuable and extensive private library containing a large number of genealogical research papers, which the Society had expected to receive on his death. Cassius had retired before his wife died, and for two years before his own death he suffered from heart trouble and lived the life of a virtual recluse.

From the numbers and references used in his workbook we know that there were in Cassius's library other genealogical workbooks and charts and a vast file of correspondence, but their whereabouts remain a mystery. According to his wife's sister-in-law the disappearance of his extensive library is also a mystery and she thinks that the two have some connection.

Mrs. Bessie Kohner of Los Angeles, who copied and arranged the material of the workbook, checked Cassius Milton Jay's probate records. He had no brothers and sisters, therefore no nieces or nephews, and he also had no children of his own, therefore no descendants. According to the terms of his will, all the money went to his in-laws, with the exception of a bequest to a Robert J. Stevenson. The reason for this, ac - cording to his will, was the fact that the money had been largely inherited from his late wife and he felt that it should return to her people. The Robert J. Stevenson was a domestic in the Jay household and at the time of distribution his address was Hayward Hotel, Los Angeles. So far, we have been unable to trace this man.

When the brother-in-law and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Davey, were permitted to enter Cassius Jay's home after his death the library was practically empty and all his books were gone, with the exception of a collection of novels and one very old genealogical book which Mrs. Davey took home. This was written in ink on sheets of yellow ledger paper in Cassius's own handwriting. It was very heavy; weighed about twelve pounds. This is the "workbook"of this publication. The home and furnishings were purchased by Jay L.Shenk, a nephew-in-law, mentioned in the will, but who did not receive any money. When he was contaced by Mrs. Kohner he knew nothing of the library or the genealogical records.

Cassius Milton Jay had a particular system of numbering, but for his purpose it worked very well and The Jay Family Association proposes that all genealogists of the Jay family follow this system in the future. It will be easy for the members of the Association to "tie in" their lines to this Index, using Cassius's numbering system.

What Cassius Jay actually did was to assign each Jay male an individual number, if and when he found any information about him beyond his birthdate. Only two Jay women received numbers..... the two who never married but who bore children out of wedlock. In the upper right-hand corner of each family group will be found the number of the male head of that family. In the lower lefthand corner of each family group will be found the name and number of the father of that man. If in the index, one man appears to have more than one number, it may seem confusing, but it will not be to anyone who is familiar with genealogy. The explanation is that the man has his own individual number, also he appears as a child in the household of his father who has a different number, and if he himself, has male children who receive their own individual numbers, then he appears on those pages as their father.

When the original manuscript was copied a sheet of paper was not allowed for each sheet in Cassius Jay's book. Instead a line was drawn across the page to indicate the end of a page. This procedure has been continued in the present manuscript. The pages are arranged chronologically, although the numbers are not consecutive. Males of names other than Jay have numbers also, but those,we are certain, refer to other books or charts which so far have not been found.

Through the kindness of interested persons material has been sent to us from all sections of the country, some of it is data accumulated through research of professional genealogists. We make particular reference to the Mildred M. Warren manuscript and the John Edwin Jay manuscript. We are sorry that we are unable to print this valuable information with this volume. Such data should be added to this document however, for until we have definite proof of the lineage of William Jay, born 1720, we can only record what we find and conjecture as to the progenitor of our Jay ancestry.

As is indicated by the first entries in the workbook, (Thomas Jay[1] (501), John Jay[2] (901), John Jay[3] (1001), Cassius Jay did more than conjecture. Apparently he be - lieved that he had found the immediate ancestors of William Jay, b. 1720. The proof necessary for the inclusion of these names in the index may have been in the mysteriously - lost files, for Cassius Jay was a cautious worker and had such nationally known genealogists as Gilbert Cope of Philadelphia investigating the 'Jay problem'. However, in 1935 he was still in doubt and indulging in the dangerous pastime of wishful thinking. In a letter written to John C. Jay of Greensboro, Alabama, on 10 October 1935 he wrote:.....

"And just between the two of us, let's celebrate the Tercentennial Anniversary of Thomas Jay's departure from England. It is given in the "List of Emigrants" as October 24, 1635....just almost exactly 300 years ago.

"I don't know of anybody else who will so enjoy the remembrance, and especially in sometime being able to show that he was the ancestor of William who married Mary Vestal.

"And he was a real patriot too, because he got into trouble in the Massachusetts Colony along about 1646 for helping circulate Dr. Child's Petition which was a demand for more liberal rights....one of their very first uprisings and before the Quaker and Baptist troubles began.

""He was jailed"and probably came near having his ears chopped off like some of the other folks of the day. As a matter of fact he wasn't able to stage a comeback 'til long about 1660, when he was able to return from Hingham to Boston and shortly thereafter to build the first old State House.

"There were several interesting situations in his life. So fire a firecracker or something with me on the 24th."

No matter how undocumented and therefore unreliable the first three entries may be, the Jay Family Association feels that the only known existing copy of the valuable manuscript should be published and copies be placed in all the leading libraries of the country in order that it may be made available to the future Jay family genealogists.

We wish to thank those who have been helpful in this work. We are especially indebted to the late Esther Rouland of Arlington, Virginia, whose inspiration founded the Jay Family Association and whose vigilance and persistance was rewarded by the discovery of the Cassius Jay manuscript; to Bess Kohner whose sleuthing tracked down the rare manuscript and who copied it, alphabetized, and checked it thoroughly "until she was convinced nothing was missing"; to Mrs. James J. Davey who was particularly helpful in attempting to contact all persons mentioned in Cassius Jay's will and for turning over the workbook of her brother-in-law for copying; to Mary Keysor Meyer of Severna Park, Maryland, Editor of the Bulletin of the Maryland Genealogical Society, for carefully typing the stencils and mimeographing the pages of the final manuscript; to all the members of the Jay Family Association, who through a mutual affection for the name "Jay" have united to assist through genealogical research, the authentication, proper identification, and preservation of the existing records of all known Jay family data.

Before attempting to use the Index it is recommended that a study be made of the accompanying chart on which is traced the line of Cassius Milton Jay in the regular manner but to which has been added the numbers which Cassius Jay used. A comparison of this chart with the worksheets will clarify Cassius's system.

THE NAME AND FAMILY OF JAY(E)

Compiled By

The Media Research Bureau, Washington, D.C.

The Name of Jay or Jaye is of several separate and distinct origins. In England the name was chiefly taken from the nick-name, "the jay", having reference to a chatterer or to a gaily dressed person. In some cases, however, it was taken from the residence of its first bearers in*township of Jay, in the parish of Leintwardine, Herefordshire. In France the name was originally used either as a baptismal or as a nickname (probably the latter) and was taken as a patronymic by the sons of one so called. Unlike most families the spelling of the name has been limited almost entirely to the the present forms, Jay and Jaye

Families bearing this name were seated at early dates in the English Counties of Hereford, Somerset, Devon, Surrey, Salop, Gloucester, and Norfolk, as well as in the city and vicinity of London and in various parts of Scotland. In Continental Europe families of the name were to be found at early dates in the French districts of Perigord, Lorraine, Berry, and Isle de France. These lines were, inmost cases, of the landed classes and nobility of England and France.

The earliest definite records concern the brothers, Brian and Philip de Jaie or Jaye, who were living in Hereford[illegible] and Shropshire, England, about the beginning of the thirteenth century. Of these, Brian married Edelina, daughter of William de Burleigh or Burley, and had issue by her of two sons, John and Robert. John de Jay, the elder of these, married Joanna, daughter and heir of Gilbert de Bukenhall, and was the father by her of Peter, Hugo or Hugh, Walter, and Alena. Of these, Peter left a son named Walter, whose records are not, however, complete.

Walter de Jay, son of John and Joanna, left at least one son, named Thomas, who married Johanna de Jay, evidently a cousin, and had issue by her of John and Thomas. The latter was the father about the middle of the fourteenth century of a son, whose name is not known, but who had a son named Thomas Jay, who made his home at a place called Jay, in Shropshire. This Thomas was the father of John, who had a son named Roland Jay, who left issue by his wife, Isabella, of female issue only, Elizabeth and Elianora.

Other early, although unconnected, records include those of John le (the) Jay, who was living in 1313; those of Thomas le Jay, in 1327; those of William le Jay of Somersetshire, as early as 1327; those of Richard Jay, about the middle of the fifteenth century; and those of Thomas Jaye, who was registered at the University of Oxford in 1511.

Of the Somersetshire line, one John Jaye or Jay, was the father in the latter fifteenth century of a son name John, who married Ann, daughter of Robert Strang, of Berkshire. This John was the father of Bennett or Benedict Jaye, who left issue by his first wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Pulleyn or Polley, of Robert, Anthony, Francis, Jane and Friswithe. His second wife, Elizabeth, daughter of William Woseley, gave Bennett another son, named John.

Robert, eldest son of Bennett or Benedict, married Elizabeth, daughter of Oliver Vachell, of Southamptonshire, and had issue there of at least one son, named Anthony Jaye or Jay.

Anthony Jay, second son of Bennett or Benedict, left issue in County Surrey by his wife, Jane, daughter of George Ferrers, of Warwickshire, of seven children, William, Benedict, John, Thomas, Frances, Elizabeth, and Richard. Of these, William resided in Dorking, County Surrey, in 1623 and was the father by his wife, Frances, daughter of Richard Hutton, of Francis, Frances, Temperance and Alice.

Francis Jay, third son of Bennett or Benedict, also resided in Surrey and married a Miss Bird, of Gloucestershire. He left at least one son, named Charles, who married Catherine Withers, also of Gloucestershire. To this last union was born a son named Francis Jay, who settled at Whitley Park, in Gloucestershire. Sometime before 1661 he married Martha, daughter of Nicholas Webb, and their children were Elizabeth, Anne, Charles, Mary, Martha, Nathan, Nicholas, Thomas, and Francis.

Of the French families of the same name, one Le Jay, (Christian name not given) was granted arms in Lorraine in 1514. The Jays, Counts de Beaufort, were living in Perigord at an early date; and other early branches included those of the Le Jays de Bellefond, in Berry, the Le Jays de Fleurigny, and the Le Jays de Maison Rouge, in the Isle de France region.

The Jays of La Rochelle, France, traced their descent from a family of the same name in the province of Poictou, the seigneurs de Montonneau. In 1565 Jean Jay, a Protestant, was living at La Rochelle. From him was probably descended Pierre Jay, of La Rochelle, a prominent merchant and shipper, who was a staunch Huguenot. After the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, in 1685, he sent his wife and children to England and shortly after followed them, making his home at Bristol. The father suffered imprisonment for a short time before making good his escape to England, and all of his property, except the ship which carried him to England and its cargo, were confiscated by the French government. Pierre was the father of Francis, Augustus, Isaac, and Frances. Augustus Jay, the second son of Pierre, was absent on a voyage to Africa at the time of the family's flight to England and, returning shortly afterward to find his home disrupted, determined to seek his fortune in America. He came in the latter seventeenth century, by way of the West Indies, landing first at Charleston, S.C., and then going to Philadelphia and finally to New York. He was not, however, the first of the name in this country.

Two English emigrants preceded him and settled in Mass.These were William Jay or Jaye, who resided at Boston and was married about1653 to Mary, daughter of John Hunting, of Dedham, Mass.; and Jonathon Jay, who served in the colonial militia under Capt. William Turner in 1676. The records of these settlers are, however, only fragmentary.

The before-mentioned immigrant, Augustus Jay, became a prominent and successful merchant of New York. In 1697 he married Anna Maria, daughter of Balthazar Bayard, of that colony. To this union were born five children, Judith, Mary, Francis, Peter, and Ann.

Peter Jay, the only son of the immigrant, Augustus, made his home at Rye, N.Y., and was married in 1728 to Mary, daughter of Jacobus Van Cortlandt, of Yonkers. Their children were Eve, Augustus, Jacobus(died in infancy), James, Peter, Anna Maria, Frederick (died young), John, Frederick, and Mary.

Of the sons of the first Peter, Augustus died unmarried in 1801; James went to England, where he became Sir James Jay, but returned to New York at the close of the Revolutionary War and died there in 1815, without issue; and Peter married Mary Duyckinck in 1789, but left no progeny.

John Jay, son of the first Peter, became a lawyer and was admitted to the bar in 1768. He was greatly distinguished in the politics of his time and was prominent in the debates of the first and second Continental Congresses. In 1777 he was appointed Chief Justice of the State of New York; in 1778 he was President of Congress; in 1779 he was sent as Minister to Spain; in 1782 he went to Paris as Commissioner to assist in neogotiationg a peace treaty with Great Britian; in 1784 he was appointed Secretary of Foreign Affairs, which office he held for five years; in 1794 he was sent as Special Minister to London; in 1795 he was elected Governor of the State of New York; and in 1800 he was again nominated to the office of Chief Justice of the United States, but declined this honor and retired to his paternal estate at Bedford, where he died in 1829. By his wife, Sarah*Brugh Livingston, daughter of Governor William Livingston, of New Jersey, whom he married in 1774, John was the father of Peter Augustus, Susan, Maria, Ann, William and Sarah Louisa. John Jay was appointed first Chief Justice of the U.S. in 1789.

Frederick Jay, youngest son of the first Peter, was married first in 1773 to Margaret, daughter of Andrew Barclay. His second wife was Euphemia Dunscombe, but the names of his children, if any, are not in evidence.

A William Jay, who was born, probably of English parentage, either in Pennsylvania or New Jersey, made his home in Frederick Co., Va., before 1743. About that year he married Mary Vestal, by whom he was the father of James, William, Joseph, John, Mary, Lydia, David, and Rachel.

The records of these lines are not complete, but, of the sons, James married Mary Vose; William was twice married, his first wife being named Elizabeth and the second, Margaret; Joseph married Mary Cothran; John will be mentioned below; and David removed to South Carolina and thence to Alabama, about 1819. While these men undoubtedly left families, the names of their progeny are not at hand.

The other son, John Jay, made his home in Newberry district, S.C., and removed in the latter part of his life to Ohio. In 1773 he married Elizabeth Pugh, of Pennsylvania, who was of Welsh Quaker descent. John and Elizabeth were parents of Jesse, Thomas, Ann, Mary, John, Samuel, Walter, William, James, Lydia and Jane.

An Adventurous, spirited, and courageous race, possessed of pleasing and dominant personality, the Jays and Jayes have shown themselves to be able pioneers, statesman, writers, scientists, and businessmen.

Among the members of the family who served in the Revolutionary War were Colonel John Jay, of New York; John and Lieut. Joseph Jay, of New Jersey; Andrew Jea or Jay(e), of Virginia; and Joseph and William Jay of Pennsylvania.

Peter, Thomas, John, Richard, Robert, Francis, James, Walter, Joseph, William, David, and Augustus are among the male Christian names favored by the family.

Of the members of the family who have been prominent in America in comparatively recent times, the following are considered representative:

Peter Augusts Jay (1776-1843), of New York, lawyer, jurist, and State Legislator; son of Chief Justice John Jay.

William Jay (1789-1858), of New York, jusrist, son of Chief Justice, John Jay.

John Clarkson Jay (1808-1891), of New York, physician, author, and conchologist.

Harriett Jay (1857-1932), of New York, novelist.

Peter Augustus Jay (b. 1877), of Rhode Island, diplomat.

The coat of arms granted in 1514 to the Jay family of Lorraine is described as follows (Rietstap, Armorial General, 1884):

Arms.-- "Or, a greyhound of gules."

Of the coats of arms of the Jay or Jaye family of England, the following is one of the most ancient (Burke, Encyclopaedia of Heraldry, 1844):

Arms.-- "Gules, on a bend argent, three roses of the field"

Crest.-- "On a ducal coronet or, a griffin, sejant, azure, resting the dexter paw on an escutcheon gules."

* Add to list of Jays prominent in America:

John Jay (1817 - 1894), of New York, diplomat, son of Judge William Jay.

Joseph Jay (4763)

Joseph Jay 3452

First entered the service in the Fall of the year 1775. Served seven months as a private, four months as an ensign, and thirteen months as a Lieutenant - all in the New Jersey troops. He resigned on account of sickness in February 1778. Served under the following officers: Capt. Daniel Piatt, Col. Wynes and Col. Mathias Ogden. After he resigned he again volunteered and participated in the Battle of Monmouth. (N12)

Douglas Hiles Jay, son of Nelson Jay (3469) said Joseph Jay (Note- probably the father of Joseph Jay (3452) was born in England; and remembered a long conversation between Nelson Jay (3469) and his brother Smith Jay (3455) about an estate belonging to their father Joseph Jay (3452) in England, about papers that were lost, and of other papers in the effects of Joseph Jay (3452) then deceased. This was also the remembrance of Mary W. (Jay) Butler, (wife of John W. Butler (3457) and daughter of Smith Jay (3455)). The conclusions were that money was too scarce in the family to risk any chances of going to England to hunt it up. Joseph Jay (3452) had lent the little he had for the purpose of carrying on the war; and was so great a patriot that he would accept no return; and fearing that his children might do so, destroyed the papers showing the fact, and died a poor man. RE: Joshua Jay (3742)
(B47) Letter 5 Feb 1894 from dau of Elizabeth Jay McDoel, dau of Joshua Jay (3742).

"I have only a faint recollection of my grandpa as he moved from here (Erie, N.Y.) when I was only 5 years old to Chatauqua Co., N.Y.; from there to Ohio. Grandma (Rachel Belcher) came to live with my father in Erie; spent most of her time with us; went to Uncle James part of the time in Veteran, N.Y.; was there when she died on a visit. She was a very fine Christian lady,a member of the Freewill Baptist, only to be known to be loved, - a great nurse, could give medicine both for the body and soul. She told me of some of her hardships in her early days- one was they had only one pig; it was in the fall of the year fattened and ready to butcher. They heard it make a noise went to see a bear was in the enclosure. It was built of rails, 12 feet square, a butternut tree grew in it, a pile of stones lay at its roots. Grandpa went one mile after help as he had no powder to shoot with. Grandma stood and stoned him off the pig until help arrived. They drove it away - it went to the man's pen that came to help and caught one of his before he went home. Grandma said grandpa's father was killed by the fall of a tree; hishealth failed in the Army. He was set to work on a farm, was plowing, a tree was burning. His wife plead with himnot to plow anymore after dinner under it. He said there was no danger. It fell the first time around; then grandpa was only 3 months old. She caught a shovel and threw dirt on him to keep him from cremation as he was dead and no help for a mile. Grandpa (Joshua Jay #3742)was bound to a blacksmith when quite young. His master was very cruel to him; when he was 16 he knocked him down with a hammer and ran away; he wrote his mother but never heard from her until 21; then he came to her. She married again a man by the name of Miller; one of his half-sisters married a Denmark; a half-brother is all I can remember of his ancestors."

28 Mar 1799, bought a farm in Onondaga Co., N.Y. (20 days after Onondaga Co. was erected out of Cayuga Co.)

(Calpurna Jay Coney says father of Joseph who m. Spragens was John Jay.)
("Eli Jay says B22a "I do not have the evidence of records that the Joseph Jay who came to Jackson Co., Ill. from Carolina in 1814 is the son of James Jay b. 1744. Their ages and and other circumstances seem to render it highly probable. An objection, however, is that in the record I have of James Jay (1744) family, Joseph Jay's wife is given as Patsy Byrd; but in my information of the Ill. family Joseph Jay's wife is given Rebecca Berry, nee Spragens. Both of these women might have been the wife of Joseph Jay, son of James, if this Joseph married twice - which is not certainly known")
